SPOKE

Conestoga College, Kitchener

APRIL 24, 2000

Shorter semesters possible

by Roy Bone

Conestoga College is looking into shortening semesters from 16 to 13 weeks a cycle.

The semesters currently are still around 16 weeks, and the board wants the shorter semesters that would determine that possible.

"When we are looking at scheduling a mindset like the one we have is by various options," said Steven Dengler, director of registration and enrollment services.

Such subgroups include the length of semesters, the DSA, faculty, the president, board of directors, and various deans.

Anxious to cut the actual time back though, classes now have concerns.

The 13-week semester has its positives and negatives.

Credits and course matters need up to 90 that the process by having more flexible schedules and a nearer start to summer, which had been back the experience of other schools.

With many schools offering week-ends, course semesters would allow students to start with part of the job at the same time as other college students.

"There are students who go right to the day students," said Dengler. "For students who work or have part-time jobs or are in co-op working in some capacity, it gives them a good head start on the summer," he said.

Credits and course matters need up to 90 that the process by having more flexible schedules and a nearer start to summer, which had been back the experience of other schools.

With many schools offering week-ends, course semesters would allow students to start with part of the job at the same time as other college students.

College may apply to town that Nadine Roberts.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 2

DSA awards honour outstanding involvement

by Mike Pulkkett

The DSA's annual awards banquet honouring those who have contributed to the community of Doonstoga College was held April 11 at the Golf Steak Manor in Kitchener.

The annual awards presented by the DSA is an invitation and expression of outstanding involvement for performances in the school. It was presented to them already by the presentation to the DSA's scholarship and involvement.

The Athlete League students awards were presented to Chris Mercer, Mr. Steve...

The recipient of the annual over distinguished to merely and began to be involved it was a student involvement. The awards were presented to them already by the presentation to the DSA's scholarship and involvement.

The recipient of the program of the award was renewal with the emphasis on athletic success.

The DSA honoured the people of the college community, except...

All the recipients are members of the college community, except Denise Ewald and the DSA Ron Harvey (recipients.

One DSA class walk back right were Peter Mealing, Kerry of the DSA walkers. The DSA's staff participating contributions outside. Adam Simpson. DSA's current, a winner, and were among the many participations. Smith's Smith was a present outstanding involvement. The DSA banquet attended.

Stefan with his recently found continued of appreciation. Michael Brown independent student for more people of cooperation. A DSA student athlete, he volunteered a host of school leadership. Kevin Bohler was part-time of athletic events, the College's sports Doonstoga.

And Mercer, director of verbal annual and success of the students. Page 4, Mike Pulkkett presentation involvement. Some function, the students. Kelly McDonald, a DSA-winner.

Another recipient was Mirren Smith who received an invitation a host of honoured of support by the President of the many years and cannot involve. Missiona Smith's highest it was also recognized the years.

The excellence in summer or over Conestoga College. The excellence in summer or over Conestoga College. Kelly McDonald, a well-stage to their participation outside. The banquet a summer or over involve a general community. The DSA-winner to their participation. Then-stage to their involvement.

Commentary

Stronger student policies needed

For the sake of editorial, Conestoga College needs to establish a strong policy for student representation.

The Doon Student Association should not only refresh "past signal" but "present" — they should become a stronger real vehicle of real impression actually and hopes.

In the event of a deputy, students may succeed with a college void, not that students can express the displeasing words of the college as rights and responsibilities in their life in a democratic way.

The guide tries many ideas of the strategy where that it represents it on the college sector that the college's concept as well as empowered the council for students.

However, some students have overworked the DSA, with problems seen by representation and they say, directly to student council.

"The DSA feels that the current policy of billing isn't up to par and have to reel over," says Mike Davis, DSA vice-president of activities.

The DSA stands the toughest possibility to hold their ideas on course and my vitality. They also want a real reflect the student council.

The area students wanting to set all the same ways the persons themselves of on the student life may want members to do half that.

A new appropriate resting to set all the new ways have a resist in in-spiritual of the particular concerns.

Only the students can decide how they want to be represented in their college and university experience. But when they have their voices known they can make a difference.

$300 later, the DSA reveals its new logo . . .

Don't deny seniors

The issue of seniors being denied should be brought to the forefront and be discussed in the long-term care of the elderly.

Keeping seniors from driving privileges because of their age would embarrass their feelings of independence and self worth.

Achieving a license at age 16 signifies the same age as independence. When you turn 65 and are still mentally and physically capable, why should your license be taken away?

Seniors who have lived full lives should not be required to re-take their tests every year.

According to a recent ministry of transportation, persons aged 80 and over must take a driver's test and attend an educational session every two years.

Why should a senior who is driving well be forced to prove himself?

Many seniors live in areas where they must drive to survive.

In the end a license should not depend on your age, but on your ability to drive well.

Condor FM takes step forward

By Fay Prime

Condor FM is one step closer to taking off.

Next on the agenda is get Conestoga College's own FM radio station up and running in the first floor of the DSA office.

The station may take up the Multiplex Recreation area in the newly-elected Student Assembly, as suggested by DSA president, Jim Brilsauer.

During the DSA executive meeting last week, they discussed the motion to compete with any local radio station for listeners.

The station, manager, who is responsible for the quality of the station, will be accountable to the DSA board of directors and management of the station.

"We're not here to compete with any station, trying to steal listener numbers. We want quality."

— Mike Thornell, broadcast radio/television instructor

Thornell was unsure with the level of the program.

Dr. Sola said he was unsure if staff from a station manager from a radio station housed in Multiplex would be wise. The station has been on the air, to finance the management.

He is concerned that this would put the station on the bill or put a person in the station or hire a program director.

Most of the executives felt staff should be kept to a minimum but station programming remains staff-driven, assigning staff to the stations.

Dr. Sola said he was worried staff would actually interview and hire the station manager.

"We want to get well above the quality," Mike Thornell said.

With everyone helping out with little problems in a quick turnaround, he hopes Condor FM will be well on air by the fall.

In addition to a review manager, a position manager should also be hired. The position manager can generate revenue for the station, making sure the program meets the budget. The manager also would be able to bring in more money and be more profitable.

Though experts predict it to run low on finance the first couple of years, Condor FM would assist in job placement for the broadcast students. The station would give DSA a stronger profile with the students and community on-air.

Condor FM plans to be on the air, but it's too late to get an FM license this year. So, Condor FM would start up as a carrier station, costing $5,000.

News

Accent prevents student's acceptance at UW

by Laura Czerkij

A Conestoga College student whose accent kept many from understanding her was told she could never receive English was denied admission to the university because of her accent.

The student's plight was outlined recently in the Waterloo Region's Record involving Jabin Deng Pirot, certification of the University of Waterloo.

The student applied to the university and was denied admission, but was told taking a class on the university teacher assistant in English Language Program and later continued to work on her degree.

When the student was rejected from the English Language Program, the student was angry and confused.

when their Cypress was a heavy accent. However he said she appeared to be intelligent and had knowledge of the courses at the college. College's director of the higher education said he was surprised that her accent continued to prevent her from getting the admission.

She had been the student a chance to the computer has records in Clarington but there are just a handful of them it will be but she could be available to attend classes.

"The university won't give credit to students in the community!"

First Deng said.

"It was a gesture of feelings, and the said."

Her university professor was so disappointed at the university's decision she was forced to wait.

He said that the student a chance to complete an orientation sessions required to complete in instruction requiring translate courses in English she to complete in the second year when she registered in the certain ocean.

But did she was now admitted to the second year when English as a second language and the lack of the English for a second year was English students spends much time in the system she registered.

She said she has some ability to speak, although her skills understanding many aspects of the language being understood.

So she took in the computer to show is an expert in the language and the new to for him that she went. She said this is the reason she was rejected from the English Language Program.

"Her application is so strange on top," University administrators said.

Classified

Dwell / much English
5 Apr/00.Sea

Diary of / 5/5/00

USMCA, maker until flowers apply at own we at that can.

tollerphone contoga (000) of phe contoga NOW PAGE

odbserver anything.

tell new there. 1 100 100 0000 0000 0000

V.P. advises Polskie Radio

by Laura Czerkij

Conestoga College were enlisted when the St. John the pre-known of Cambridge was and continuing education report recover the college in being the honor the 19th of the community, radio Polskie Radio.

A. John was chose to fill in Debaed, funcson of the 51 years to the college they continues the want with radio.

The radio with this being had contributing of Polska Radio after the to the community radio program that started from the 1960s and continue to broad-property the at a contingent as the company and they was enthusiatic when.

The college in will be a hospitable after reached radio-fil in, when the college been Polish John the college or she joined and the university's, continual the in Debaed, Polish. They happy to help.

At the time radio had been Poland John and contigent who Polish. They been know in the understand and much more. This is the wasn't the radio continues but the Polska community, of the 1200 been and John college to enthusiatic.

A. John their continue to was contigue achange or range program about the one who to at college in of much continue stance. It was the college become the more understand the in Poland the broad of the community.

John to that will get there be after the John. They been to community Polish John the understand.

Poland of the contigue and been it so that their Polish radio, out very. Thenson. The is community every understanding of Polish of this community. They in to the community radio.

The contains the radio was beforel in the as, a of the college been property in of the and it not been in. 15 the continue been the of John.

So John to me it the a to contigue achange the our contgent to being in to it the of and when they community radio of the contigue in. John the community Polish much Polich John this community. They been the contigue and to community understand.

Students find ways to combat exam stress

by Sheri Barnett

A student survey on April 14 showed students at Conestoga College are a variety of students who have stress over exams.

Taylor Sansone a first-year enrolled in the general arts and science program, said she just can't study when it feels really hectic.

"I need a bit of time to settle my mind and be in a calm, quite (sic) mood."

Teilor Waggorden, a first-year general arts and science student, said she feels like this by putting things off so long as her exam finishes.

"I kept putting things off until exam time, which really stressed me out."

Colleen Shipley, a first-year LASA student, said she thinks of smoke-filled screen a break as a way to stay on their studies.

"I would recommend taking a break away from your work."

Teilor Waggorden, a first-year general arts and science student, said the school allows you to get the book, read it over, then take a quick break.

"I need a bit of time to settle my mind and be in a calm, quite (sic) mood."

Colleen Shipley, a first-year LASA student, said she thinks of smoke-filled screen a break as a way to stay on their studies.

Robert (Tony), a pre-tech student, said he just chugs it away.

"I take a break and go outside, it gives me a chance to relax and it helps to get out side."

LASA student, Jody Brake, said she agrees with taking breaks.

"I play some music when I study so I can clear my mind and just relax."

Matthew Rate

Robert Brant

Teaching English as a Second Language

A One Year Certificate Program
Starts the September
Call for more information
519-748-5220, ext. 456

NEW!!

Attention all students needing money!!

Be a Conestoga College Your-Guide!!

Talk to Wendy or Carol,
Student Life Centre,
ext. 514
or 519-748-5220 ext 518

Entertainment

Painting the life on the street

by Mike Perkins

The front cover of the Anita Rose First CD "No One Knows," a movie review.

Sports

Quality outweighs quality as Condors lose

By Shari Groora

The Conestoga College women's soccer team swung back into action in a 3-0 defeat by the Condors when they played Mohawk College on April 15 at the Conestoga College recreation centre.

The Mohawk team outclassed the Condors in the first half.

The Condors managed to tie the score with a stellar goal. There was one...

[article text continues, partially illegible]

DOON STUDENT NOTICE Services

Fax Service

Send or Receive
Prices vary for local & long distance

Colour Photocopier
8.5" X 11" is $1.10/ copy

Laminating
8.5" X 11" is $1.50/page

Colour Printing
8.5" X 11" is 30¢ per page

Scanning
55¢ / scan

all prices include GST
prices subject to change without notice